THIS is what Chai is suppose to taste like in my opinion. It's rich, flavorful and all around wonderful. I add a splash of milk and sugar in mine. It's a fabulous hot drink on a cold day or evening!! :)

Our Story

Our story was originally born in a small urban center, among small alleys and skyscrapers, in the heart of the city. It all began as a coffee enthusiast from a young age, James felt the call of coffee and its immensurable aroma. His curiosity to discover the secrets behind each cup led him to travel the world, peering into distant lands and ancient traditions for the key to the perfect coffee.

A story through generations

James' passion was passed down from generation to generation, taking root in the heart of the family and guiding it along a path of experimentation and refinement. Each family member left a small mark on the business, enriching it with new discoveries and innovations. Through time, our family has refined production techniques and carefully selected beans from the most remote regions of the world, exploring every corner of the globe in search of the most delicious and authentic coffee.
